Special Correspondence of Intelligencer, NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—The yachting girl is not this season the only girl in summer's garden; but perhaps she is still the most important girl. Last year the race for the America's chains. cup brought the yachting girl into a prominence that she is slow to resign persistently asserting her claim. In 1886, when the Er gaish cutter Galaten came to race against the Mayflower, Mrs. Henn, wife of Lieutenant Henn,of England, made herself conspicuous because of her knowledge of the races and her interest in the contest. At that time yachtswomen in America were un

Since then times have changed.

To-day there are half Miozen women flag members of the New York Yacht Club and a dozen and a half of practical yachtswomen-women who have studied navigation besides scores who know the meaning of every nautical term and understand a boat from stem to stern. Besides hubbreds who, at moments, imagine themselves equally well informed.

The dress has a good deal to do with

Although, as in golf, the best sports-women are far from being the best clad, yet it is hard for yachting dress to be other than smart, while its possibilities of chic and trimness-yel, and of grace -are inexhaustible. The yachting girl's costume would astonish the woman who twenty years ago "went boating" It is not that the latest tweeds and ducks and serges are elaborate in cut, but that upon them is expended the tailor's last ounce of khowledge of the art of precision. And, simple as they are in design, there is nothing in the whole realm of dress to exceed their wealth of elaboration and elegance in matters of detail, ONL

It is no uncommon sight, for instance, to see smart serge coats flung open to reveal the most fragile of silk bodices fluttering in front with costly lace jabots. The skirts are hung upon lace-trimmed, pale-tinted petticoats, the coats revers are often faced with fine Irish point, and if it were not for the wearer's cap and glasses the yachting girl's whole outfit would appear hopelessly anomalous.

These last two details are thrown in perhaps, for local color. The yachting girl's cap is sometimes pure white, but usually it is made of the same goods as the duck dress, with a visor of waterproof slik; in shape it is just a pretty femenine edition of the regulation cap worn by men.

An objection sometimes urged to these by the girl who ties up her curly locks in a big, soft, kny-colored kerchief is that they are not practical; but to be practical is by no means chief among the ambitions of the woman who walks the rear deek of a white steamer. Unbecoming utility she leaven to whoever becoming utility she leaves to whoever goes sailing; on the steamer, to be ornamental, to be able to arrange herself well in a wicker chair and to glance now and then at the salling boats through a pair of small, handsome glasses slung by a ribodh heross the shoulder, is the whole duty of the gen-

Of course there are practical cos tumes-the usual complement of blue flengel and serge suits, with big white collais, some trimmed with, red and some with white, for cold or blowy weather, but the yachting girl can make even these nesthetically isfactory.

An Englishwoman, whose a husband's vacht is now in the harbor, wears, for example, on foggy mornings, a costume of dark blue sorge decked with gilt braid. The skirt, which strikes a happy medium as to length, is tucked down each side, and between the tucks are laid gold bands.

With this skirt she dons a pliot coat which is a loose-fitting, nautical-looking double-breasted jacket. It is of serge, of course, like the skirt. I'd fastens with big gilt buttons. It has strapped seams. The collar, small revers and cuffs are of blue edged with glit, as is the cap, which matches the costume. A distinctly smart yachting dress seen some days ago at Lhrehmont, was of dark green cloth. The skirt was trimmed around the bottom with wavy lines of broad gilt braid. The jacke was a fetching little mess coat of the green cloth. It was so short that it did

RECIPROCITY ARRANGEMENT Between Germany and the United States Has Been Effected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10 .- The long expected reciprocity arrangement between the United States and Germany has been effected. Secretary Hay and the German ambassador hav subscribed to the convention, and the President will issue his proclamation putting the new duties in force in the course of a few days. The arrangement is generally similar in terms to the first arrangement made with France and abates duties on wines, argols, paintings and statuary from Germany entering the United States. It does not require the approval of the senate, being drawn under

Gold and white are not confined to serge and finance. Many of the smart-est duck and plug droises are gay with cloth of gold. CHICAGO — There was an excited wheat market to-day, with prices at times almost 3c over the close of Tuesday. Confirmation by the government crop report of great damage to spring wheat was the main factor of strength. September closed with an advance of 24.62%c. Reports of damage from drouth caused a bulge of 1%c in corn. Oats gained ic and provisions 56124c.

Wheat started strong, September 1%@1%c higher at 81%@82c. The government crop report for July, which reduced the wheat prospect just about an even 100,000,000 bushels from the es-timate of June, furnished the ammunition for the buils. There was liberal selling on the bulge, however, on the selling on the burge, however, on the belief that the crop in the northwest had been greatly benefited by the re-cent rains. Bearish harvest news from Russia also hampered the ad-vance somewhat, and September slipped off to $112@$12ac. The early sellers were soon boiled off, and buyers became scarce. Then shorts rushed to cover, and there was considerable buy-ing for the long account. Under this movement, September rose steadily to $2c. There were several soft spots on profit-taking, but the market ruled strong thempoles. strong throughout, and September closed at 82% ($2%c. A good cash de-closed at $25,602.52, A good cash demand and small primary receipts helped to sustain the up-turn.

Chicago received 58 cars, against 85 cars the same day last year. Minneapolis and Duluth got only 165 cars, compared with 413 cars the corresponding day a year ago. Western primary receipts were 410,000 bushels, against 711,000 bushels last year. Clearances of wheat and flour from the scaboard equalled 250,000 bushels.

Corn showed decided strength, being belowd by the adverse in wheat and helped by the advance in wheat, and claims of damage by drouth. The government crop report, suggesting a possible crop of 2,200,000 bushels, en-couraged considerable selling early, but couraged considerable selling early, but aggressive buying by several bull leaders stampeded the shorts, and the market closed strong within 3c of the top. September opened 3c6% higher at 43% 643%, advanced to 44%, sold off steadily to 43%, rose to 44%, and closed with sellers at 44%. Receipts were 439 cars. Seaboard clearances 15,000 humbers and agreet selections. 616,000 bushels and export sales reported at 73 boat loads.

Oats rallied with the other cereals and closed strong. There was active buying on the government report, which indicated a yield of 50,000,000 bushels less than the June report. Rebusness less than the June report. Receipts were light, 128 cars. Shipping demand good. September opened 30 % higher at 24% 24%c, advanced to 24%c, eased off to 24%c and closed with buyers at 24%c.
